SENATOR BRENHOLT MAY BE DEFEATED.

He Attached His Political Hopes to the Yates Faction of Officeholders.

MADISON COUNTY POLITICS.

Senator Mason Has the Postmas ters Working Overtime in His Behalf-Probable Future Appointments.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Edwardsville, Ill., Feb. 25.-Senator John J. Brenhelt called his intimate political friends into secret conference at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, about ten days ago. to discuss plans for the Senator's future movements. To be exact, the date of the meeting was Friday evening, February 14. The response was not enthusiastic. fact, those who responded in person could be counted on the digits of a one-armed soldler. Be it known to all whom it may concern, that Senator Brenholt believed he was a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket this year. The Senator was disposed to modify his ambitious designs on the office when he contemplated the num-ber and influence at the primaries of the friends who met him in the St. Louis hotel. He made up his mind, however, to get something out of the primaries, if possible, by remaining in the field, and boarded a midnight train for Chicago. He told at least one politician of influence in the metropolis that he was a bona-fide candidate and would have no opposition of any consequence. He really thought no other candidate would appear for the office. He knew then that H. G. McPike would announce himself for the same office. The unaccountable and inexplainable part of the bargain is that both Brenholt and McPike are to run on the same primary ticket,

Chances Have Collapsed.

Senator Brenholt's chances for the nomination for State Senator are nil. Nobody haton for State Schaffer are his Nobody knows this quite so well as the Senator himself. He represents the Yates-Hopkins-Loriner faction in Madison County and his "pull" accurately measures the capacity of the leaders of his faction. Mr. McPike has some personal strength. George Hus-kinson, who has a place in the Insurance Department at Sorinefield; Louis Arineton. Department at Springfield; Louis Arrington, State Factory Inspector; Waiton Rutledge, on one of the State mining boards; Gil Lane and J. A. Cousley constitute the Brenholt with the same list of delegates, in Alton.

on one of the State mining boards; Gil Lane and J. A. Cousley constitute the Brenholt strength in this county. Lane and Cousley always may be depended on to get on the losing side of every question and to play a winning card to lose. Cousley was successful in guessing the candidate for Governor in 1200, but it did him no good—he was the only Yates man in the county, and nearly had a personal encounter with Brenholt in the State Convention because the latter persisted in remaining with the Hanecy ship. Cousley was offered a place as trustee or commissioner by the grateful and large-hearted Yates—where the honor was zero and the salary a cloher.

Cousley certainly would have been Postmaster of Alton this blessed minute had he not been chained to the fortunes of Brenholt. It is reported that John Tanner ordered $2,300 sent to Brenholt in the spring of 1500 to carry the Mindison County primaries. The result was a grievous disappointment to Tanner, who bluntly informed the Alton gentleman that he "was not in evidence—Madison County cost me more and I get less from it than any county in the State." But Brenholt was true to Tanner in the senatorial race, and, as a consequence, Cullom wouldn't have anything to do with his candidate for the Alton Post Office, Mr. Cousley. Now, these distinguished Alton gentlemen, including Lane and McPike, have hitched their sled to the Yates funeral car. The outfit is enough to attract the vultures. Most everybody in the State knows that Hopking is a sure loser, and there is not enough saving grace in existence to prevent Yates getting the worst kind of a whipping if he persists in his determination to pose as a Warwick in the State.

Governor Yates's Choice.

Governor Yates's Choice.

There is a logical explanation for this condition. Governor Yates, Congressman Hop-kins and Mr. Lorimer probably prefer Bren-holt, Cousley, Lane and the State job-holders to no friends, and as these eminent holt, Cousley, Lane and the State jobholders to no friends, and as these eminent and influential citizens were not desired in the camp of Dawes or the camp of Mason they trailed after the only crowd that would tolerate them. I remember, last summer, when the two Alton factions called on Cullom in Springfield, The Republic predicted the success of Postmaster Norton and the defeat of Cousley, and the latter, in his paper, made some spiteful references to the matter which were beneath the dignity of an aspirant to the Alton Post Office. The statements in The Republic of last year have been literally fulfilled. The proposition advanced in The Republic during the campaign of 1996 that Brenholt, if nominated for Congress, would run behind his ticket in his own county, was verified. I believe he was behind McKinley in every township in the county with one exception. The attempt of Senator Brenholt to rise from the ashes of the political tomb will not succeed, and, quite appropriately, he is attached to all the corpses in the Republican cemetery.

Senator Mason is the livest issue in Madison County. He has been using the post offices at a great rate to strengthen himself, and the county may instruct for his reelection. Representative Louis E. Walters visited the Senator in Chicago recently,
and on his return home announced himself
a candidate for the Senate without asking odds from anyhody. Mr. Walters declares he is not pledged to any candidate for the Senate, but he brought some Post Office news with him, and there appeared to be an air of confidence in his neighborhood, as though he spoke on authority.

Senator Mason wants the Senator and two Representatives the Republicans will elect

Senator Mason's Wants.

Senator Mason wants the Senator and two Representatives the Republicans will elect in this district this year sound to him with instructions. But this has not been the rule in this county, and it is sure to precipitate a fight. Mr. Dawes has some influential friends in the county and district, and if they want to be ugly they can cause the Mason crew a lot of tribulation. But the Postmasters and their retainers are the best hustlers. C. N. Travous of Edwardsville will probably be the arbitrator in the windup, and if he says "no instructions," it's life to I there will be none.

There is some talk of the few administration workers joining the post office forces and tying the district to Mason, to make certain that Dawes don't get it—or some-body equally as obnoxious to the Governor of the State. The leading Republicans of the county fluring the past four years have openly and bitterly denounced Senator Mason, and are on record, too, that the Mason, and are on record, too, that the Democrats are hoping Mason will got what he wants.

It is certain that Representative Walters and Senator Mason have an understanding. Among the changes soon to occur, Harry Marsh's job as Postmaster at Upper Alton goes to a glassblower friend of Waltershame of Sites. Marsh has been a friend of the Brenholt faction, and one of Lieutenant Governor Northcott's trusted allies. If he isn't looking for another job he had better be on the jump.

The glassblowers receive this little place, the first and only recognition of their influence and votes, except the nomination of Walters to the House two years ago. Marsh's time was out January 10. There was a primary election at Highland last Thursday for Postmaster, but the returns have not yet been received here. On March 10 the time of Joseph Rain at the North Alton office expires, and a harnessmaker and general-store keeper named Deterding is slated for the place by the friends of Senator Mason. Postmaster Hilker of the Madison office will probably be asked to step out. There is a warm contest on for the place. John Hochull has been decided upon for the St. Jacob's office. It is generally agreed that there will be no change at Edwardsville.

A year ago the Democrats elected Joe Hotz Sheriff, to fill a vacancy, and last summer they again carried the county for Justice Ricks. These two victories discredited the County Committee and frightened the Republicans and they are not so certain they will sweep the county next fail. One or two mistakes will be fatal, and instruction for Senator is counted as one. Madison County is linked with Rond in a senatorial district, and the former will take the nominee for Senator and one Representative, conceding the other Representative to Bond. There is only one candidate even mentioned for the House. It is Attorney W. E. Hadley of Collinsville, a relative of the late W. F. L. Hadler.

This county and legislative district are fair fighting ground for Democrats in this year's elections, and it would not surprise many people if the Democrats carried both. So far as the congressional nomination goes Madison will be for Rodenberg, or most anybody Rodenberg wants.

IMPORTANT RULING ON GARNISHEE LAW

Appellate Court Hands Down an Opinion in the John Maag Maintenance Suit.

The Court of Appeals vesterday overruled the decision of the Circuit Court awarding Mary Maag a judgment for $94.29 against Milton F. Williams, garnishee of her divorced husband, John Maag, who was ordered to pay her $30 a month for the support

Maag was married before and his first wife got a divorce from him with the custody of a child and alimony the evidence showed. When this second divorced wife sued him for the support of the child by the second marriage, he pleaded his exemptions as head of a family, having to support the child by the first marriage. After suit was begun against him by his second wife, Mang remarried his first wife. This, however, had no bearing on his lia-bility for the support of the child by the second marriage prior to the last marriage Circuit Judge Spencer ruled that Mang's legal obligation to support the child by the first marriage constituted him head of a family, but that he was not entitled to claim his wages exempt as against the claim for the support of the child by the second marriage.

The Court of Appeals holds that the legal and moral obligation of Maag to support his child was not taken away by the award of its custody to its mother, but that the judgment for its support is like any other judgment; that the statute of exceptions makes no provision whatever in favor of such a judgment, and its collection must be enforced like any other judgment. The opinion in the case was written by Judge Bland and concurred in by the other Appellate Judges.

Lower Court Reversed. The Appellate Court reversed the finding of the Greene County Circuit Court, giving judgment in favor of James R. Milner, who was sued by Annie E. Ruff of Philadelphia, Pa., for $3,000, which the evidence showed he loaned for her, and foreclosed the mortgage, and collected the money and did not give it to her. He pleaded the statute of limitations and his discharge in bankruntey.

Judge Bland, who wrote the opinion in the case, held that the statue of limitations had not run at the time the plaintiff learned of the sale of the property, and directed that judgment for $3,230, with interest from October 17, 1900, be given against Milner.
